HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Here we go into another year. All of us at Omni International thank you for a fantastic year in purchases. Omni experienced perhaps the strongest quarter in the company's history at the end of 2011-thanks to you!

As we look back at 2011, Omni International introduced several new products in our food service and retail product lines which have been extremely successful. On the medical/dental front, Omni has gone completely "powder free" eliminating all our "powdered" medical/dental gloves. In addition, we have filed 510K's for several new gloves which we hope to release in the future.

Our Anti-Microbial (AMS gloves) continue to grow in sales and interest in both food service and retail. This glove offers an extra level of glove protection for restaurants, delicatessens, supermarkets and consumers.

2011 was a very busy year for us. Much of the work we did last year in research and development will start to be seen by our growing customer base over the next year or two.

One item that has been in process for the past year is packaging. Our friends at Blue Sail have streamlined packaging of our very popular #312 series vinyl gloves to where we can now supply more product on every container. Previously, our medical gloves were packaged 2,600 cases in a 40 foot shipping container. Effective with all new containers ordered this year, we can now ship 3,000 cases in a container.

Our non-medical vinyl gloves for food service, retail and multi-purpose were formerly shipped in a 2,700 case configuration. Now, we are shipping containers with 3,260 cases. So as you can see, not only have we been working on glove technology, but also logistics solutions. FYI - we have been shipping the 3,260 case containers successfully for about 5 months.

As for 2012, let the excitement begin. All of us at Omni International are very eager to work hand-in-hand with our corporate friends at Blue Sail Corporation in China. Together, we have some exciting plans for this year and well beyond.

We wish you all the best success, happiness and health in this exciting new year.
